ROSCOE MAN MEETS DEATH ON RAILROAD; BRAKEMAN KILLED

William Johns Comes to Charleroi for Evening and Is Found Dead Later

FIREMAN PATTERSON VICTIM

Leaves Train Near Bamford to do Flag Duty and Suffers Accident—Dies Later in Memorial Hospital At Monongahela

Two railroad fatalities took place early Sunday morning, the victims being William Johns, aged 34 years, a colored man of Roscoe, and F. C. Patterson, aged 23 years of West Brownsville. Johns was killed near the Charleroi freight station, and Patterson near Bamford.

His head severed from the trunk, his right arm off and his skull fractured the body of Johns was found at about 5 o'clock in the morning by Engineer Casebolt of a northbound freight train. The body was placed in charge of Deputy Coroner Lawrence B. Frye.

Saturday night Johns had been in Charleroi and had been drinking. He was seen at the station when the "bummer" went south, but he did not get on the train. At that time he was seen sitting with another man at the bumpers at the end of the station. It is supposed that he started to walk up the railroad when he was struck by a train. Just in what manner he was killed is not known. John leaves a wife and five children in Roscoe.

Patterson was fireman on a West Brownsville freight train and was out doing flag duty. Apparently he had left his train to walk back along the track. After the northbound train had passed, he was found by men of his own train lying at the side of the track, one leg and one arm cut off. He was hurried to the Memorial hospital at Monongahela and there he died about midnight.

Patterson was a bout 23 years of age. His parents, Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Patterson reside at West Brownsville. There also survive four brothers and one sister: Jesse, Harry, Norman and Howard and Mrs. Mildred Mollar all of West Brownsville.

PERRY AND BERRY HAVE MIXUP OVER SUM OF $47

When A. J. Perry, tax collector of South Brownsville, left his office Saturday he left Walter Berry a friend there. When Perry returned, Berry was missing as was also about $47 which had been left in a desk. The desk bore the signs of having been broken open. Berry was found not long after and was searched for the money it is said but none was found.

NEPHEW OF CHARLEROI WOMAN MEETS DEATH AT THE FRONT

Private Glace, Relative of Mrs. Fred Pinfold Killed by Shrapnel While With Company in France.

Mrs. Fred Pinfold of 811 Washington avenue has received word that a nephew has been killed at the front in France. He was with a British detachment. Mrs. Pinfold visited at the home of the young man last year at the time of the outbreak of the war. Following is the story of his death from an English paper:

It has been officially reported that Private Ernest Edward Grace of the First 5th Duke of Wellington's Own West Yorks Regiment whose parents live in Newdigate-street, Crewe has been killed at the front. He belonged to the Huddersfield detachment of this regiment and was killed by the shrapnel on the 10th of July. Death was instantaneous. He was a married man 27 years of age, and before the war was employed as a crane-driver at an iron foundry at Tubridge.

Private Grace left England about two months ago, going to France. He had only been in Belgium about a week when he was killed. Mrs. Grace has another son in the army. Private Albert Lewis Grace of the Oxfordshire and Buckinghamshire Light Infantry now at Sutton Common.

JUST MISSED FUN RELATES RODGERS

Charleroi Man in Mexico Tells of Experience in the Fighting Line

TRAVELING PROVES COSTLY

Samuel Rodgers, son of Mrs. S. E. Rodgers of Fallowfield township describes his late experience in Mexico in a letter just received at his home here. Describing a trip to Acambaro, he tells of a stop at a mine. Then he says: "The manager took us next morning over to Elcero. It would take too long to tell all the happenings—nothing serious though. Our train was taken from us about half way to Toluca by order of a Zapista general to carry in to Toluca some old women of soldiers and Villa soldiers. I asked a colonel if we could ride in. He replied in English, "Sure Mike," so we got in while most of the other 400 or 500 passengers were left behind.

"We reached Toluca about 2 o'clock in the morning and four of us slept on a carpeted little hallway, till morning in one of the hotels. We got a room next day over a billiard room. We were pretty well accustomed to most anything by this time. "After a week there two of us

JOINT REUNION IS LARGELY ATTENDED

Representatives of Six Families on Hand at First Event Of Kind Held at Oakland Park—Reunions Planned

The first quinquennial joint family reunion of a number of western Pennsylvania families was attended at Oakland park on the Sunday car line Saturday by from 300 to 400 persons and plans were laid for other reunions of the kind to follow every fifth year.

Families represented at the reunion included the Carson, Scott, Sphar, Colvin, Hazelbaker, Riggs, Van Voorhis, Frye, Chalfant, Ailes, Redd, Johnson, Cooper, Hormell, Wickerham and Grant, 16 all told.

John Rodgers presided as chairman and three addresses were made. Mrs. May Riggs, Dr. Lida Grant and Miss Mira Johns were the speakers. Mrs. Harvey Brown of Charleroi gave a reading.

No new officers were elected for the next joint reunion which will be held five years hence. During the intervening years the separate families will hold reunions.

PASSENGER SERVICE TO BEGIN IN SHORT TIME

New Station of Monongahela Railways at Fairmont Completed and Other Stations Along New Route Are Opened Ready for Service.

Passenger service over the New Monongahela Railway into Fairmont, W. Va., will begin before long. The Fairmont station has been completed and many other smaller stations along the new route are now open and ticket agents have been chosen.

The steps on the Morgantown station are delaying the new service that is to be installed some time this month, or early next month. Other minor details have not been completed. The schedule has been worked out but not yet approved.

A train is now being operated between some of the stations, but has not been placed on a regular schedule. The freight traffic over the new lines is tremendous and can be seen passing the Union Station at Brownsville almost any period in the day.

When once the new passenger service is opened it will be a through schedule.

finally paid a general 100 pesos each to be allowed to ride on his train toward Mexico City as far as they went on a military train. He was taking some 500 soldiers to the front. We rode in first class company with the young officers and their lady friends, so we had an easy time of it. The general gave us a pass also through the lines, some five miles beyond their station, Dos Rios. We left there the next morning and walked to Mexico City, about 20 miles, being held up about every half mile by outposts until beyond their lines. It was ridiculous but might have been serious.

"We were in the fighting lines but no fighting took place the day we came there, so we just missed the fun as they were fighting the day before.

"It is pretty hard climbing down here still, but we Americans get treated pretty well considering."

BENTLEYVILLE MALTAS HOLD LODGE OF SORROW

Rev. H. O. MacDonald Makes Chief Address at Memorial Exercises—Six Members of Commandery Die During the Last Year

Impressive memorial services in commemoration of departed members were held Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock in the Farmers and Miners hall by Nile Commandery No. 377, Knights of Malta at Bentleyville. The audience numbered more than 200 including the knights and others present.

The lodge of sorrow was held in memory of Thomas Lawson, Henry L. Hart, William Wightman, Ed. Harrington, Alexander Longmire and John Hosack, members of Nile commandery who have died.

Special music was one of the features of the exercises. All the choirs of Bentleyville churches united for the occasion. Vocal solos were sung by Mrs. Leonard K. Sands and Emory C. Snyder.

THOMPSON GETS SIX MONTHS TO STRAIGHTEN UP AFFAIRS

Uniontown Financier Working to Complete Refinancing of His Numerous Interests.

Six months additional time or until next March 14 was given J. V. Thompson Saturday in which to complete his refinancing negotiations. The extension was granted by Judge J. Q. Van Swearingen at Uniontown at the request of 18 or 20 lawyers who represent unsecured and judgment creditors of Mr. Thompson. General approval of the action of the creditors and the court was voiced on every side.

Mr. Thompson returned home from the east Saturday morning and shortly after noon he appeared with his counsel before the Fayette court. Counsel representing practically all of his creditors, were present. Mr. Sturgis stated briefly to Judge Van Swearingen that Mr. Thompson had not completed his negotiations, and asked that the court grant a continuance on the receivership matters. Mr. Sturgis said that he believed that Mr. Thompson ought to be given some substantial time in which to get something accomplished.

CUTTING AFFRAY AT BELLE VERNON

One Man in Hospital, Another in Lockup as Result Of War Argument

ONE SLASH DOES DAMAGE

One man is in the Charleroi-Monessen hospital and his alleged assailant is in the Belle Vernon lockup as the result of a cutting affray at North Belle Vernon Saturday night. Fred Province is the man in the hospital, and Harry Hayes is the man in the lockup.

It is said the fight between the two men originated in the barroom of the Province hotel, with the European war as the cause. Hayes, it is stated drew a pocketknife and slashed at Province, cutting him four times. The worst slash left a gash from one of Province's ears toward his windpipe.

Province was given medical attention and hurried to the hospital. Word from there is to the effect that he is not seriously hurt.

Hint of Awful Crime in Greene County—Mystery Surrounds Affair

OFFICERS LOOK FOR DOCTOR

Explanation Wanted of Physician's Connection With Case—Medical Instruments Found in Automobile With Girl's Body

All Greene county was shocked Sunday night when the nude body of a young girl identified as that of Miss Nettie Poland, aged 19 years, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Warren Poland of Georgetown, W. Va., was found by Hiram Stockdale about 6:30 o'clock in an automobile on the side of a road near the residence of Charles Grim, about two miles west of Aleppo. The girl had died some hours before, to all appearances as the result of a criminal operation.

Connected with the case is the name of Dr. J. L. Sivert a Georgetown physician, who has disappeared but for the apprehension of whom every effort is being made by the Greene county and West Virginia authorities. In the car under the girl's body were found also instruments that would be used in a case of this kind, together with anaesthetic gauze and a bottle of chloroform, part of which had been used.

The whole affair is wrapped in mystery. So far as can be learned Dr. Sivert came to Georgetown to practice his profession about seven years ago. For the past four years he had been living at the boarding house of which the girl's father is the proprietor and for the past four years also he had been paying attentions to the girl.

Saturday about noon Dr. Sivert and Miss Poland left in the automobile presumably to make professional calls. The machine went north and from about 2 p. m. until 9 p. m. stood at the front of the residence of Lewis Antil. People in the neighborhood supposed the physician was paying a call and thought nothing of it. About midnight the doctor stopped at the home of William Moore and asked for water, saying he had a sick woman in the car. Members of the Moore family say they thought nothing of this at the time but assert they heard a woman groan in the car.

All of Sunday the car was seen standing at the side of the road about two miles from Aleppo, but no one went to investigate it until the evening, thinking that it was out of commission and that the driver had gone for help. When Hiram Stockdale turned down the road the gruesome find was disclosed for the first time.

The car, which bore a West Virginia license No. 9517 belongs to Dr. Sivert. The cushion had been removed from the seat and placed lengthwise in the car and the girl had been laid upon it, her feet toward the radiator. In the box under the cushion and upon which the girl's feet were resting, were found surgical instruments of the sort peculiar to an operation such as that

OVERCOMING FEAR OF DEATH

Uselessness of Feeling Apparent to All, But Few Ever Succeed in Mastering it.

The spirit will not be in a measure the slave of the body while we are afraid of death. The dream in our hearts is somehow to break through the last barrier of fear—to conquer it. As some have said, on the other side of fear. The uselessness of the fear of death is as apparent to us as the uselessness of the fear of the unknown. Its ignorance is a thing that haunts all who are subject to it.

What is the love of death as the human spirit of man? What is it? A passion to be cultivated may be doubted. Those who have overcome death in the great sentences of the renaissance did not see it as the destroyer of the beauty of men's bodies and of the light of the world as the common man knows it. To the religious mind, which accepts the vision of a real and populated world far beyond this beyond the grave, death is not the destroyer, but even to most religious men this world is a prison. Death, as it is best, is an exile, a deliverance. They have the bravery to die, but the slavery was the sadness of Hector. And yet, as with Hector, some men that drives them to despise this death of the body, to accept this exile as more to be desired than safety and a man's own dearth and children.

Christian, pagan, and atheist are at one in this. They feel that the life of the body itself can be fully enjoyed only when the fear of those that kill the body has been utterly overcome.—The Statesman, London

FISH ALMOST A CLEAR WHITE

Remarkable Specimens of Albino Trout That Are on Exhibition in New York Aquarium.

Among the interesting exhibits at the New York aquarium is a collection of albino trout. These creatures, which are all of a clear cream white, including their fins, with no color about them except that of their characteristic bright ruby-red eyes, are most striking and curious in appearance, an exchange says.

In its natural coloring the lake trout shows on its upper body white or grayish spots on a brown background. On the large albino lake trout the spots can be discerned, appearing as very faint spots of the same color, but of a different weave in a woven fabric. These spots show so faintly that they would never be noticed by one unfamiliar with this species and its markings. To the casual eye these fishes present bodies of solid unbroken white.

The lake trout is a handsome fish and these albino trout are perfect specimens without a blemish. They appear not as freaks, but simply as graceful and beautiful white fishes. To display them to greater advantage by contrast the larger albino trout are shown in a tank of brook trout.

Democratic Swiss Army.

It is a democratic army, that of the Swiss. The whole manhood of the nation is liable to service, and there are no officers but those who have served as privates. There are no such colleges as at West Point or Woolwich or Sandhurst, but the man who is to become an officer must get his instruction in a few weeks' training in the schools at Thun or Basel. The confederation has the control of the skilled mechanics, such as engineers, the sanitary corps, the commissariat. So much the democratic country has left to the central government. But the cantons have to look after and supply the infantry, and their duty is to see that no man able in body and mind evades his military service; but no canton may keep more than 300 men as a permanent force, which is a curious illustration of the double sovereignty in that crinkle of Europe.

"Classical" Music.

Many people have an idea that only the compositions of the old masters are "classical" and frequently imagine that these are classical because they belong to the past. It is not antiquity or the name of the composer that determines whether a piece of music is classical or otherwise. The true meaning of classical music is: Compositions which maintain a certain standard; music of the first rank. Compositions can be classical and romantic at the same time. The word romantic, as applied to music, means imaginative, fairylike. Music which is classical and at the same time romantic, is more emotional, more fanciful, more poetic and less rigid and formal than strictly classical compositions. For example, Bach's works are, more frequently, strictly classical, whereas Mendelssohn's and Schumann's are both classical and romantic.

Wisdom.

Wisdom is not the same with understanding, talents, capacity, ability, sagacity, sense or prudence; not the same with any one of these; neither will all these together make it up. It is that exercise of the reason into which the heart enters; a structure of the understanding rising out of the moral and spiritual nature. It is for this cause that a high order of wisdom—that is, a highly intellectual wisdom—is still more rare than a high order of genius. When they reach the very highest order they are one; for each includes the other, and intellectual greatness is matched with moral strength.—Sir Henry Taylor.

SYLVIA'S TWO LETTERS

By DONALD ALLEN.

From the depths of a broken heart Sylvia wrote to her dearest friend: "I must tell you, first of all, Madge, that I have parted from Robert—forever! I cannot be true to myself and marry a man who believes me false. I would rather go unloved to the grave than to the slave of a jealous man. And although I confess that I can never love again—that I shall always love him—I shall not marry Robert Lorson. I am sending back his ring tonight. You need not finish your pink chiffon. I shall not need any bridesmaids—ever. Do come to visit me and cheer your broken-hearted Sylvia."

Sylvia wiped her eyes and wrote another letter—a very short one: "Dear Mr. Lorson—You understand why I am returning your ring."

Yours sincerely,
"SYLVIA MOORE."

Madge Fenton read her letter with wide-open eyes.

Robert Lorson read his with slowly whitening face. With compressed lips he laid it down and stared at it for a long time.

The box containing the engagement ring he tossed into a drawer of his desk.

"Sylvia," said her married sister one day, "what has become of Bob?"

"Really," said Sylvia indifferently, "I haven't the slightest idea."

Mrs. Jameson stared at her. "What has happened? You have quarreled?" she asked quickly.

"We are no longer engaged," explained Sylvia. "You see, Lisa, Bob is terribly jealous—he was frightfully angry because I talked so much to that delightful Mr. Enright, the novelist. He was actually rude to me."

"You were flirting," accused Lisa, bluntly.

"Not at all," fared Sylvia, hotly.

"Then you really meant all you looked at Mr. Enright?" asked the older woman slowly.

"Well—" Sylvia's voice broke.

"Every one was talking, and I'm not a bit surprised that Bob was angry. But as long as you don't care—if the broken engagement is a welcome relief to you, dearie, I am glad for your sake." Lisa bent and kissed her sister and walked toward the door.

"By the way, dear, I had a glimpse of Bob this afternoon—he was having tea at Berry's—with Madge Fenton."

She vanished.

"Madge Fenton!" Sylvia's voice wavered into a little sob. She was her dearest friend, and Sylvia knew that if there was one other girl in the world who fancied Bob Lorson it was Madge Fenton. And now Madge, taking advantage of Sylvia's confidence, was making herself agreeable to Bob.

A few days later, while scanning the morning paper, Sylvia read a marriage notice—Robert Lorson and Madge Fenton had been married quietly the day before and were sailing at once for a voyage around the world.

Sylvia, with face aflame and a heart of ice, laughed at her own reflection in the mirror.

"Liar! Coward! Cheat!" she taunted herself.

Robert Lorson came back to America alone. His bride was resting in an unknown grave in some Alpine crevasse.

Long months afterward Sylvia met him riding in the park. The scene of their meeting was a sheltered bridlepath. Both drew rein.

Then Robert poured out his heart to her and asked her to marry him. He had never ceased to love her, he confessed. He did not attempt to excuse his hasty marriage to Madge Fenton; that explained itself.

"You will not want to marry me when I tell you all, Robert," said Sylvia gravely. Then she told him about the two letters she had sent.

"Of course I realized that you had made a mistake," he said eagerly. "As soon as I read the opening line and saw it was intended for Madge I refolded it and sent it to her. I'll admit I was tempted to read all of it."

"And Madge exchanged letters with you?" asked Sylvia in a muffled tone.

He nodded. "She asked me to meet her at Berry's. We had tea together and exchanged letters."

"And so you didn't read the letter I wrote to Madge?"

"Certainly not—how could I?"

"I want to tell you what I wrote to her," went on Sylvia in a strained voice, and because the letter was written in fire on her memory she repeated it word for word.

"If I had read it all, darling, I would have come to you at once," he said tenderly. "I thought you didn't care."

"I am not worthy of you," she said brokenly. "I—mixed up those letters intentionally. I sent Sylvia's to you because I was too proud to confess myself in the wrong, but I wanted you to know that I loved you in spite of all. I did not appreciate that you had a higher code of honor—that you would not read what was not intended for you. I have been punished for my weakness, Bob—and I do not blame you if you despair me," she sobbed.

His arms were about her.

"I want you more than ever, Sylvia," he said.

AFTER SUFFERING TWO LONG YEARS

Mrs. Aselin Was Restored to Health by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Minneapolis, Minn.—"After my little one was born I was sick with pains in my sides which the doctors said were caused by inflammation. I suffered a great deal every month and grew very thin. I was under the doctor's care for two long years without any benefit. Finally after repeated suggestions to try it we got Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. After taking the third bottle of the Compound I was able to do my housework and today I am strong and healthy again. I will answer letters if anyone wishes to know about my case."—Mrs. JOSEPH ASELIN, 606 Fourth Avenue, Minneapolis, Minn.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made from native roots and herbs, contains no narcotics or harmful drugs, and today holds the record of being the most successful remedy we know for woman's ills. If you need such a medicine why don't you try it?

If you have the slightest doubt that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound will help you, write to Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co. (confidential) Lynn, Mass., for advice. Your letter will be opened, read and answered by a woman, and held in strict confidence.
